

Junior Technical Consultant IT Security (m/f/x)

We are looking for curious IT security enthusiasts who want more!

For us, it's not so important how much specific IT expertise you bring with you. Because we think: "Learning by doing" is the best approach to continuously expand your knowledge. For our job as Junior in the Security at Netdescribe (S@ND) team, we are looking for people with strong communication skills. With a passion for IT and securing it. With high self-motivation to acquire the necessary expertise and skills to provide our customers with the best possible protection through our Managed SIEM and Managed XDR services.

Does this sound like you?

Your tasks or "what awaits you with us":

- A very technically oriented environment where all areas of IT security are handled. We support you to take over the following tasks in the future:
 - Analyzing IT security events at our customers in the context of our SIEM and XDR products
 - Creation of rules for the detection of new threats
 - Operation and further development of the team's tool landscape in the automation/SOAR environment

Your Profile:

- You are very interested in IT security and in developing yourself further in this area.
- You have a technical IT education, e.g. as an IT specialist, a technical degree or are a career changer with practical experience in the IT security environment.
- You have already acquired first know-how in the administration of Windows servers and/or Linux systems
- You have basic network know-how
- You enjoy familiarizing yourself with new and complex topics and sharing new knowledge within the team
- Very good German and good English skills complete your profile

Ideally, you should not associate Kali and Burp with gods and indigestion, or have already actively worked with technical protection measures (e.g. monitoring, firewalls, intrusion detection/prevention, antivirus) and understand their function.

A varied daily routine is all well and good - but by no means everything.

We offer you:

- A friendly working atmosphere
- Regulated home office and co-working spaces in the office
- Optional 4-day week
- Allowance for company pension plan
- 30 days vacation per year
- Paid time off for special occasions (e.g. wedding or birth of a child)
- Employee-recruit-employee bonus
- Teammates who take exchange and mutual support for granted
- The opportunity for continuous education
- Very central location in the city of Munich
- JobRad - Bicycle leasing at great conditions
- Fair salary from the day one
